YOUR VISA COMPANION

In Western countries, one can normally travel freely, but a visa is needed for most countries in Asia. Indonesian authorities require a passport and a visa for longterm stay and study. Applying for a visa is part of your study abroad semester preparations. Visa procedures may vary from country to country, and sometimes even from one official to another. Asia Exchange recommends that students take care of their visa well before leaving for their destination.

In Indonesia, a student visa belongs to the Limited stay visa category. The Indonesian Embassy grants multiple-entry visas to study in Indonesia (E30 visa).

With this visa, you can stay for your entire study duration in Indonesia.

E30 VISA

As an international student attending Udayana University, obtaining an E30 visa is a mandatory requirement for your stay in Bali. The E30 Visa is the only visa accepted by Udayana University for international students. It will be processed by Udayana University directly. Below is a step-by-step guide on how to apply for your E30 visa:
